Hearing Wednesday for Webb request

Harrison County Circuit Judge Jay Delaney will respond to a request by accused murderer Bass Webb to withdraw his guilty plea to the murder of Bryia Runiewicz on Wednesday afternoon in Pendleton County.

Webb entered a guilty plea to the murder charge on July 18. However, at the sentencing hearing on Aug. 15, he submitted a request to withdraw his guilty plea.

Delaney, who moved the case to Pendleton County after it became obvious he could not seat a jury in Harrison County, was to rule on the motion Wednesday at 1 p.m.

If the judge allows Webb to withdraw his guilty plea, a new trial date will be set. If he does not accept the request, the formal sentencing is expected to take place at the hearing.

The Commonwealth recommended a 50-year sentence to run consecutively with a 15-year sentence he is already serving for attempted murder in Bourbon County.

First battle of Cynthiana presentation tonight

Historian Bill Penn will discuss the July 17, 1862, First Battle of Cynthiana, at 7 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 20, during the Harrison County Historical Society meeting. This will take place at 102 E. Pleasant St. Cynthiana, Ky., in the Charles W. Feix Room of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Public Library Annex. For information, call Bill Penn at 859-846-4214.

Charges sought in animal cruelty

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

A criminal complaint is being pursued by the Cynthiana Police Department and Harrison County Animal Control against a couple who allegedly abandoned at least one dog leaving it to starve.

Sgt. Wilbur Gross along with Harrison County Animal Control officer Paul Colson were called to a 203 W. Penn St. residence, which had been the former residence of Donna and Edward Golden.

Gross said the dog was severely underweight and covered in fleas.

Colson said the dog, believed to be a border collie mix, was at least 50 pounds underweight, weighing only 33 pounds.

Gross said they suspected other dogs had been confined to the basement where they found feces covering the floor and a hole in the back basement door. He said the hole appeared to have been chewed or scratched open for escape.

“There were several calls for strays in that area recently,” Gross said.

According to Animal Control officer Alan Fryman, there was no food or water inside the residence.

“It was nearly starved to death,” Fryman said. “In all my years, this is the worst [case] I’ve seen where the animal is still alive.”

Fryman added the dog is

Judge to rule on motion for recovery of Brown funds

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

A hearing is scheduled today in bankruptcy court to hear a motion filed by the U.S. District Court trustee regarding the recovery of $417,414.43 for the estate of James Brown that is being held by R.B. Kirk, brother of Kay Brown.

Judge Joseph M. Scott Jr. ordered that any responses to the motion should be filed by Wednesday, Sept. 19.

Judge Scott also signed an order on Sept. 14 sustaining in part objection to claims of exemption, which were filed on behalf of James Brown by his representatives.

In his order, Judge Scott writes “The unbelievable egregious facts of this case are set out in detail in the court’s prior order entered Aug. 24, 2012,” which is the settlement order.

That order included properties for both Kay Brown and the Brown parties, who are James Brown and his conservator Richard Wehrle and his guardian and brother Paul Brown.

The Brown parties waive all claims of ownership against Kay Brown’s estate for the following assets:

- $61,039.52 in Kay Brown’s personal checking account that is currently subject to a restraining order;
- The unencumbered Paintsville house valued at $800,000;
- Furnishings and household goods located in the Paintsville house;
- All jewelry of Kay Brown;
- A 2012 Toyota Tacoma and 2011 Mercedes;

- All claims of Kay Brown’s estate including all avoidance actions under Chapter 5 of the bankruptcy code;
- All funds held by Kay Brown’s brother for her, including but not limited to all funds received directly or indirectly from Kay Brown since her marriage to James Brown;
- A reduction in Mr. Brown’s claim from $12,954,640.62 to $2,914,449.62;
- The Brown parties agree to subordinate any right they have to a pro rata share of the Former judge sentenced

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Former Harrison County District Judge Wayne Fitzgerald, who found himself on the other side of the law, will be required to complete court-ordered diversion and pay back $4,151 to the Social Security Administration.

He will not be serving any jail time if all of the diversion requirements are met.

Fitzgerald, who was indicted in June, entered a guilty plea to the charges of theft by failure to make required deposition.

He will remain on supervised probation for three years, according to orders from Judge Danny Caudill, who was assigned to the case after local judiciary stepped away from the case.

The Commonwealth’s prosecuting attorney Kathryn Hendrickson of Maysville recommended a three-year sentence.

Fitzgerald admitted to taking Social Security

College becomes family affair for MCTC student

Tammy Switzer

Tammy Switzer's fifteen years as a medical receptionist reinforced her desire to have a career where she could be of service to others.

However, Tammy had been out of school for 25 years and those first few steps one has to take to once again enter college loomed large for her.

"I did not know where to begin," she said. "As it turned out that was not a problem at all, because once I made my first call to MCTC/Licking Valley Campus the folks there treated me so well.

I was encouraged, directed and helped at every turn and soon my idea of becoming a nurse was on its way to becoming a reality.

As an added bonus which came as a pleasant surprise was the positive impact it had on her family. Tammy's daughter is enrolled in the registered nursing program at MCTC/Licking Valley Campus as well.

"My twenty-seven year old son saw that we could juggle our adult responsibilities and succeed in college at the same time," she said. "He has also enrolled in a community college where he lives.

Now that there is a college campus, Licking Valley Campus, right here in Cynthiana it allows me to have enough time to study and spend time with and for my family as well."

With the built in flexibility of the nursing program, Tammy was able to work and complete her program requirements as quickly as possible.

"It is never too late to learn," she said. "As a nontraditional student I am not unique. Many people have returned to school to prepare for a second or third career change and found that pursuit to be very rewarding."

Having More Retirement Accounts Is Not The Same As Having More Money.

When it comes to the number of retirement accounts you have, the saying "more is better" is not necessarily true. In fact, if you hold multiple accounts with various brokers, it can be difficult to keep track of your investments and to see if you're properly diversified.* At the very least, multiple accounts usually mean multiple fees.

Bringing your accounts to Edward Jones could help solve all that. Plus, one statement can make it easier to see if you're moving toward your goals.

*Diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

Harrison Deposit to merge with Bank of Henderson

Harrison Deposit Bank is merging with The Bank of Henderson, a Henderson, Ky., financial institution, if the proposal receives regulatory approval.

In a Monday press release, it was announced that the transaction will be accomplished through a merger of the banks' respective holding companies.

Barry Hall, who is Harrison Deposit's chairman and president, will retire at the time of the merger. He will be succeeded by Tonya Dryden, a veteran of the bank's management team.

Dryden will become market president of the Cynthiana financial services operation. Outside directors of Harrison Deposit will also be retained.

Dale Sights, president and CEO of The Bank of Henderson, and Hall issued the following joint statement:

"We believe that community banks are the backbone of local economic systems. Therefore, it was our mutual desire to structure an affiliation that will uphold that tradition. Further, it is our feeling that through the merger, the institution will expand its capacity to improve the economic and social wellbeing of the valued clientele that we serve."

According to the release, the merger is expected to occur in early November.

"At that time, a new name and brand that reflects the company's range of services will be announced," the release states.

Rural Harrison County gets broadband

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

Shelby Broadband's signal is now stronger than ever for rural Harrison County residents.

Harrison County residents who often find themselves out of range for reliable internet service will no longer have to live in the dark ages.

Shelby Broadband, stationed out of Simpsonville Ky, now offers fast, reliable wireless internet service for the majority of rural Harrison County.

Through the use of seven water towers and one cell tower, Shelby Broadband is now capable of sending internet signals to a large portion of Harrison County.

"This is not the typical satellite internet," explained Charles T. Hogg Jr., co-owner of Shelby Broadband. "Our internet service is more comparable to DSL service found within city limits."

According to Hogg, only three final locations in northern parts of Harrison County are awaiting equipment in order to receive the fast wireless internet services.

Hogg said the three remaining locations should be up and running by the first of October.

"Of course not all locations will be able to receive internet," said

Hogg. "Unfortunately, some sections located in the valleys of Harrison County are not able to receive signals from the towers."

Nevertheless, Hogg said coverage will be unmatched by any current providers to rural Harrison County.

Hogg said customers interested in receiving wireless internet from Shelby Broadband will be monitored by the amount of usage in order to keep users from going over the "soft cap" amount each month.

"Right now there is no real set of data able to be used by the customers," explained Hogg.

"However, we do monitor the amount each house uses in order to keep from having problems with too much downloading by just one user."

Hogg said customers should also be able to download more movies through Netflix without the worries of going over the allowed data usage.

For more information about wireless internet provided by Shelby Broadband, contact them at 1-888-364-4232.

Scheduled installation are required. If no signal is received at the time of installation the visit is free of charge.

Sheriff's Department hosting pill return day on Sept.29

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

The Harrison County Sheriff's Department will once again host a pill return day on Saturday, Sept. 29, in an effort to discard unused medication.

According to the Harrison County Sheriff's Department, the issue of unused medication continues to play a large role in Harrison County crime.

Not only are pills continually linked to home invasions in Harrison County, the improper discarding of medication also continues to be an issue.

According to a medical press release "an estimated 250 million pounds of unused medications are improperly disposed of each year."

The Kentucky State Police have documented several hundred tons of medication dropped-off in previous pill-return programs across the state.

Most of the improperly disposed medication finds its way into water sources where several environmental concerns are born.

In an effort to help eliminate some of those issues in Harrison County, the sheriff's department will be hosting a pill return day Saturday, Sept. 29 at Cynthiana Christian Church.

Harrison County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Peak said the sheriff's department will also come to shut-in home in certain circumstances.

"This service is not just for anyone," explained Peak. "We will only come to a home to pick-up medication if the residents are unable to drive to town to do so."

Peak said anyone needing assistance in medication disposal should contact the sheriff's office at 234-7135.

Peak also noted that a medication drop-off container is always available for use during working hours at the sheriff's department.

Using dowsing technique to determine melon’s ripeness

Sometimes I’m left scratching my head and feeling like perhaps somewhere there is a camera filming my reaction to some silly situation.

Becky Barnes
Editor

As I’ve said before, this is my second year growing a box garden in my backyard.

Last year it was tomatoes and herbs. This year, tomatoes, watermelon and cantaloupe.

I didn’t know what to expect when I planted the melons. Certainly not that they would overflow the box and stretch into my yard.

But they did.

The fruit, however, was lacking. Out of all that greenery I had one watermelon and two cantaloupe.

Here’s the thing. Tomatoes are ripe when they turn red. Cantaloupe are ripe when they turn tan. Watermelons are ripe when...

I had no idea. And, I found that most other people have no idea either.

My step-ma said to pick them once the stem dries. That makes sense, but this huge watermelon vine is still as green as the day it was first planted and the watermelon stopped growing weeks ago.

My fear was that my very first melon would rot on the vine.

It became a regular topic with nearly everyone I came into contact with.

Do you know how to tell if a watermelon is ripe?

Growing up, my grandmother was always handing out advice that was based on old wives’ tales.

Who doesn’t know that if you get stung by a bee to put a penny on the sting and it will draw out the poison?

But, when my neighbor said to use two broom straws to check the ripeness of the melon, I was at the very least skeptical.

“Mr. G” [Julian Griffith] as he was dubbed by my son, told Ernie that one straw should be placed along the stripe of the melon and the other crosswise.

If the melon is ripe, the straws will line up. The straw that is crosswise will spin in the direction of the stem.

Where’s the camera?

So before the rain settled in this week we decided to test our melon.

With two broom straws in hand, we headed to our little backyard garden.

Ernie Barnes lifts the single watermelon grown in the backyard box garden.

Looking around to see if anyone was watching, I placed the straws on the melon as directed.

The crosswise straw vibrated as soon as I laid in down. We watched a few seconds and bam! That straw moved clockwise to parallel the other straw.

We stood with our mouths hanging open like we were waiting for some manna from a mother bird.

Oh my goodness.

Then I was reminded about dowsing for water and how two sticks or rods are used to find ground water.

Since a watermelon is primarily water, it’s perhaps based on the same theory.

After our melon was chilled, we sliced into it and found the sweetest melon ever!

I started trying to remember some of my grandmother’s tales and came up with very few.

One was ‘wart witchery.’ She said her grandmother was a wart witch and bequeathed her knowledge to my grandmother, who then handed it down to me.

Apparently a skeptical wart-bearing subject will nullify ‘the spell’. However, some of my subjects have had success.

I know there is a wealth of information out there that is dying out.

Do you remember any of your parents’ or grandparents’ remedies, sayings or tales?

Drop me an e-mail at bbarnes@cynthianademocrat.com or visit us on facebook and leave a comment. If I get enough response I’ll pass those along in a few weeks.

In the meantime, if you have a persistent cough at night, rub Vicks vapo-rub on the bottom of your feet and put on a pair of socks. Sweet dreams.

Browns

first $100,000 the trustee distributes to all other creditors;

•After distribution of the initial $100,000, the Brown parties will share pro rata in monies obtained through liquidating Kay Brown's estate;

In exchange, the Brown parties will receive from Kay Brown the following assets, which will also be reflected in two lawsuits pending in Harrison District Court, known as "the title suit" and "the recovery suit."

•Mr. Brown's claim to $2,914,449.62 as an unsecured claim;

•Allowance of other Brown parties' claims;

•The trustee waives the attorney-client privilege of Mrs. Brown and the estate with respect to her prior attorneys. Excluded from the waiver is any attorney-client privilege of Mrs. Brown with her criminal counsel or of her counsel prior to the conversion to a Chapter 7 proceeding;

•The trustee will disclaim any interest in the Brown Real Properties and transfer such properties back to Mr. Brown, free and clear of all liens, claims and interests, including any interest that Mrs. Brown would have had in the event of Mr. Brown's death;

•Upon Mrs. Brown obtaining possession and ownership of the following property, it shall be transferred to the Brown parties...

-- A 5-carat diamond ring;

-- Any and all stock of the Farmers National Bancorp of Cynthiana Inc.

-- All property of Southern Accents currently in storage and all property located in the house at 112 Grandview Drive; and

--Any and all automobiles titled in Mr. Brown's name and the pool table, Rolex watch and other personal property originally owned by Mr. Brown.

When all of the settlement agreement stipulations have been carried out, Kay Brown will then enter an agreed order stating that the prenuptial agreement, signed prior to Kay and James Browns marriage on Feb. 2, 2008, is valid and enforceable and the new will void and the initial will is the valid will of Mr. Brown.

Judge Scott offers discussion as to whether the bankruptcy court is the proper jurisdiction to determine the validity of a will and the ante nuptial agreement.

As far as the new will is concerned, Judge Scott notes that Mr. Brown is still alive, which, even if the court had the authority to determine the validity of the new will, the court would not do so because any determination of the court would not affect the property of the estate.

Therefore, Judge Scott stated that he would not approve the settlement agreement in the matter of the new will's validity.

However, he added that the validity of the ante nuptial agreement is suitable for the court's determination.

Scott wrote that the court's trustee investigated the ante nuptial agreement and that it was his conclusion that the settlement agreement should be entered as it would be in the best interest of Kay Brown's estate and that of her creditors.

"The court finds that the trustee's evaluation of the benefits of the proposed settlement agreement and the weakness of the [Kay Brown] estate's 'claims' against the Brown parties is well reasoned and well supported by the overwhelming weight of the evidence," Judge Scott writes.

He further states that Kay Brown's testimony in opposition to approval of the settlement agreement was not only "unconvincing, it was not credible in any respect."

The judge noted numerous contradictions in Kay Brown's testimony.

He particularly noted that Kay Brown said she had been given the ante nuptial agreement just before her marriage to Jim on Feb. 2, 2008.

However, Minerva and Darl Music, identified as friends of Kay Brown, testified that Kay knew the terms of the ante nuptial agreement before she married Jim Brown.

The document states that Ms. Music testified that Kay Brown was not concerned about the ante nuptial agreement "because she could change Mr. Brown's mind after they got married."

Jack Keith, who served as Kay Brown's representative in the ante nuptial agreement, was also listed as a credible witness and his testimony was that he tried to encourage Kay Brown on more than one occasion to consider some changes, particularly in the area of protecting her disabled son in the event that something happened to her, and that the agreement allowed for no rights to her in the event of divorce.

Judge Scott approved the settlement agreement with the exemption of new will criteria and ordered that the involved parties perform all of their respective obligations.

He also ordered that the Brown properties that had been deeded to Kay Brown be returned and that his $2,914,449.60 claim be allowed.

On Sept. 14, Kay Brown filed an appeal to the settlement agreement which raises the following issues:

• "The bankruptcy court erred in approving, in substantial part, the proposed settlement agreement;

• "The bankruptcy court was without subject matter jurisdiction to approve all elements of the settlement agreement, including, but not limited to, that portion of the proposed settlement agreement which prejudiced [Kay Brown's] rights in property which was not owned by the estate in bankruptcy, and which will never be owned by that estate;"

• "That the court was outside of its jurisdiction in ruling on the validity of the ante nuptial agreement;

• "That the court erred in holding that the ante nuptial agreement was conscionable and enforceable under Kentucky law, which it is clearly unconscionable and unenforceable."

There is no hearing set for the appeal.

Why church?

Scattered throughout any community are tiny, struggling churches.

Sometimes they're invisible. If you blink while driving past them you'll miss them. Or they're eyesores — run down, weather worn.

In my 20 years covering local religion for the newspaper, I've gotten to know the people at some of these little churches.

I've attended their services and could count the people in the pews with two hands and not need a third.

Two things have run through my mind: Why don't they admit defeat, close up shop and go somewhere else? And, why do they stay together?

I've always been part of churches that are so big that I don't know half the people, and so I don't understand a tiny church's dynamic or mentality.

I remember talking to a pastor of one such little church. In his community, which maybe encompasses five square miles, his church is one of three of varying denominations, all three with only a handful of members.

Each church has a long, rich history. Each church has members who had been there since their birth — their mamas and grandmas, aunts and cousins had all been members.

The pastor was telling me about some needed repairs at his church and how the other two churches also needed some help. He also told me about their tradition of combining congregations and meeting together in each other's churches on rotating Sundays.

That was a head scratcher.

"Baptists, Methodists, Pentecostals — why don't you just all form one church?" I asked.

He looked at me as if I had asked a really dumb and insensitive question. Which I had.

He said, "If you're a Baptist, do you want to be Methodist? And if you're a Methodist, do you want to be Pentecostal?"

He wasn't saying that one was better than the other or that the people in the three churches didn't all get along, because they do. He was saying that Christ's church as a whole forms its own smaller family groups where the people worship the same Lord and Savior as the universal church, but in ways that are more comfortable amongst themselves.

I get that. I love being Presbyterian. It's not that I have anything against Baptists or Methodists or Pentecostals, I just prefer being Presbyterian. It feels as if it's in my DNA.

GRACE NOTES

But I don't want this to be a discussion of denominations or even styles of worship. Instead, I'm thinking today about churches in general: small, medium, large or jumbo, all colors, all flavors.

Recently, I visited another small church in the community. The pastor, a woman, has been in this church since before she was born. Her great-grandfather was its founding pastor. The church has gone from 400 people to just a faithful few, and hers is another church that I've wondered why it still exists.

It all comes back to what the church is.

If it's just a place to wear your new clothes, to sing a few songs and learn a few principles to make your life run more smoothly — well, you can do that anywhere. Or not do it at all.

But if it's a family reunion, if it's the place where the people you count as your brothers and sisters come together each week to practice your common family traditions, to learn about and celebrate your common faith and your Father's love, then whether you're few or a few hundred or thousand in number, your church is a precious place.

The size of the membership doesn't matter as much as the size of the love the people have for one another.

One of my most cherished parts of going to church each week is sitting in front of Harry and Charlotte Austin. At the end of the service, after all the songs and the offering, after the sermon and God coming and loving us, after the pastor's final prayer and benediction, every week I turn around and say, "Good stuff, huh Harry?"

If he and Charlotte aren't there, I miss them. I miss saying, "Good stuff." If I'm not there, I miss it, too.

I think that's the way church should be. I think it makes Jesus happy.

Southwood brothers charged in 2011 gun theft at Nichols' garage

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Just as one brother entered guilty pleas in the theft of firearms in Harrison Circuit Court, another was indicted on the same charges.

John Southwood, 28, who has allegedly been in hiding in eastern Kentucky, was indicted Tuesday on five counts related to a break-in at a garage owned by Larry Nichols.

According to Cpl. Walter Tapp, Southwood along with his brother Kevin took an SKS rifle and a .380 pistol from Nichols.

The alleged incident occurred between Sept. 18 and Sept. 20, 2011.

The program airs Saturday, Sept. 29 at 8/7 p.m. CT and Sunday, Sept. 30 at 4/3 p.m. CT on KET.

John Southwood, 26, is charged with first degree burglary, theft by unlawful taking (firearms) two counts, theft by unlawful taking ($500 or more but less than $10,000) and third degree criminal mischief.

Sentencing has been set for Nov. 8 for Kevin Southwood. A first degree burglary charge was reduced to third degree. He entered guilty pleas to the third degree burglary, two counts of theft by unlawful taking (firearms), a theft by unlawful taking (others) and third degree criminal mischief.

The court dismissed a persistent felony offender charge against Kevin.

A three-count indictment was also issued for Joshua Perez, 24, on charges of receiving stolen property ($500 or more but less than $10,000) two counts and persistent felony offender.

The grand jury alleges that Perez had possession of property belonging to Ben Settle and Elizabeth Williams, knowing that it was stolen.

His bond is $5,000.

A no true bill was issued in the case against Scott Marshall, who was initially charged with second degree assault.

No true bill means that there were insufficient votes by the jurors to issue an indictment.

FSA Guaranteed Loan program update and increased loan limits

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director John W. McCauley, announces that guaranteed farm ownership loan funds for Fiscal Year 2012 have been exhausted. Farmers and ranchers in Kentucky received $59,736, 321 million in guaranteed loans through Aug.

31, 2012. “Fiscal Year 2013 begins on Oct. 1, 2012, and we anticipate that guaranteed farm ownership funds will be available in early October,” said McCauley. FSA guaranteed loans allow lenders to provide agricultural credit to farmers who do not meet the lender’s normal underwriting criteria. Farmers and ranchers apply for a guaranteed loan through a commercial lender, and the lender arranges for the guarantee. FSA can guarantee up to 95 percent of the loss of principal and interest on a loan. Guaranteed loans can be used for both farm ownership and operating purposes. According to McCauley, the guaranteed loan limit will increase to $1,302,000 starting on Oct. 1, 2012. The current guaranteed loan limit is $1,214,000. “FSA is committed to providing credit through guaranteed and direct loans to eligible farmers and ranchers who need capital to continue or start their agricultural operation,” said McCauley. For questions regarding guaranteed farm loans, contact the FSA County Office, 103 Rodgers Park Dr., 234-2646.

Pear ripen after the harvest

Old farm sites that are long vacant often have remnants of a once thriving agricultural model that fed the whole family.

Among the farm smorgasbord was the small home orchard; and among the orchard the Kieffer pear still stands if nothing else does.

The Kieffer pear has been around for a long time and it seems we have forgotten how to treat it as an eating pear.

If you have ever happened upon an old tree you may have been put off by the hard fruit.

You see, there is virtue in this hard fruit if you can’t go to the grocery store every few days: The Kieffer pear stores and ripens after an initial chilling period so this is perfect if you want pears in the root cellar to last until the winter.

In fact, there is a category of pears called “Winter” pears because this chilling period initiates the ripening process and is one of the reasons pears are typically harvested prior to true ripe on the tree.

Usually if pears are left on the tree to ripen, their skin gets tough and the flesh gets mealy. The one exception to “pears ripen best off the tree” are Asian pear varieties like Hosui, Chojuro and Shinseiki.

So, back to the Kieffer pear, in our Fruit, Nut and Berry Inventory book the Kieffer pear is described as “large, long, golden yellow fruit with a crimson blush. Crisp, juicy, coarse textured, white flesh with musky aroma. Excellent for canning and baking. Good variety for pear honey and preserves.

will?

I am afraid the tree fell out of favor because of the changing ways we sourced our food.

No longer was the home orchard providing fruit for our families directly or through the corner market; the super market became our source for fruit which meant a bulk proposition sourced from a monoculture orchard growing fruit ready to eat, not ready to store.

For fear of losing the food knowledge that allows us to enjoy the Kieffer pear instead of thinking it tastes terrible, remember the chill; and if you come across a Kieffer pear out standing in the middle of a field somewhere, you will know to harvest the fruit that releases with a gentle tug.

You will know to store it in the produce drawer of your refrigerator and forget about it for a couple of weeks. And, you will be delighted be the pear after it has a chance to fully ripen and there will be no need to gobble them up because you will also know that they have long storage life.

Pick fruit while still hard and store in a cool place; reaches peak flavor when fruit gives slightly to the touch.

Hardy, vigorous tree bears young; dependable crops. Self-fruitful. Practically immune to blight.

Turtle Man(ia)

Ernie Brown Jr., the Turtle Man, poses with his crew, Squirrel Brady, left, Jake Ison, center, and Neal James, right.

Ernie Brown Jr. dreamed of being famous since childhood; today he has fans all over the world

By STEPHEN LEGA, LANDMARK NEWS SERVICE

Ernie Brown Jr. arrived at Cedarwood Restaurant in Lebanon, Ky., where the rest of his Turtle Team was waiting. He was carrying a brown envelope and had a smile on his face.

"We did it. We got it," he said. "Got the cover of Rolling Stone magazine."

For Brown - who is better known as The Turtleman - making the Rolling Stone cover has been a dream ever since he first saw a copy of the magazine when he was 5 years old.

But alas, this was another mock-up created by a fan who wanted him to know that he deserves to be on the cover. "They done got me again," Brown said. "It ain't so bad."

He might not have made the cover just yet, but as his "secretary" Neal James pointed out, Brown has done everything he's set out to do.

The people who've known Brown throughout his life can bear witness to that.

James Coulter, Brown's teacher when he was a student at Mackville Elementary, remembered Brown as a humble and polite student, but also as someone who knew what he wanted. Coulter said he asked the class one day what they wanted to do when they got older.

"He said, 'I want to do something with animals, and I want to be on TV,'" Coulter said.

Lola Brown, Turtleman's mother, had similar recollections.

"When he was smaller, he'd say I'm gonna catch some animals and take 'em to the zoo, and I'm gonna get on TV with 'em," she said.

When Ernie was 12 years old, they tried to do just that. Lola said he'd caught a 50-pound turtle and they took it the Louisville Zoo.

"They said we can't keep one that big. It would eat up all the other animals. And they wouldn't take it," Lola Brown said. "We took it on over to Green River and turned it loose."

On track

Brown, 47, learned how to catch turtles from his Uncle Phillip, and he caught his first turtle when he was 7 years old. It's a talent he has mastered over the last 40 years, as evidenced by numerous Youtube videos and now his television show on Animal Planet, "Call of the Wildman."

But the road to celebrity hasn't been an easy one for Brown.

For decades, he has been removing and relocating snapping turtles from ponds throughout central Kentucky, but that wasn't always enough to pay bills or put food on the table. Brown has worked a variety of odd jobs, including farm and factory work, but he decided about seven years ago that he needed to be the Turtleman full-time.

That's about the same time he connected with James, who wrote a theme song for Brown and became his contact for nuisance calls. Before they became television personalities, they would get three or four calls a week requesting Brown's skills in removing problematic animals.

James pointed out that their compensation wasn't always financial in those days.

"When me and him got together, we used to go and play for empty beer cans 'cause we don't drink. So, we would take the aluminum back with us," he said.

They've also been paid with leftover barbecue, and Brown once received dozens of eggs for his services.

A few years ago, Brown started speaking to schools and making appearances at local events like the Great Outhouse Blowout at Penn's Store and the Heart of Kentucky Farm, Home and Garden Show. Eventually, he got the attention of Kentucky Afield, an outdoor show that airs on Kentucky Educational Television.

After that piece aired, it was posted on Youtube in February of 2008, and it went viral. (Anyone who has not seen the Kentucky Afield piece can find it here: www.youtube.com/watch?v=Gn8EQ0azXpQ.)

Through his videos, the Turtleman gained a national following, and one of his fans was NASCAR driver David Ragan, who shared the videos with other drivers. One of them, Carl Edwards, reached out to Brown and his Turtle Team.

Jake Ison, who could be considered the master builder for the Turtle Team, said Edwards was one of their first celebrity fans. He also took the initiative to contact them and went out of his way to help, according to Ison.

"I think all of us would unanimously agree that Carl Edwards saved the day," James said. "Carl Edwards gave us an entertainment lawyer and an entertainment agent. He done lots and lots of things for us."

"He believed in us," Brown said.

"Still does," James added.

Brown gained the attention of Sharp Entertainment, the same company that produces "Man vs. Food", "Biography," and "Property Wars," and that led to a deal with Animal Planet.

Dawn Sinsel, executive producer of "Call of the Wildman," said she first learned about Brown by watching the Kentucky Afield video. She said she was amazed and fascinated by the way he was catching turtles and his personality. After sending out a crew to shoot a demo, Animal Planet was hooked, Sinsel said.

"We just fell in love with him," she said. "We went straight to series with him."

Sinsel added that Brown is one of the most genuine people that she's ever met.

"He is what you see on camera," Sinsel said.

Team effort

Everyone involved acknowledges that Brown is the star, but he is quick to point out that everyone has contributed to the show's success.

"If I fail, I've got Neal backing me up," Brown said. "If Neal and me fail, we got Jake backing me up. It might be his day. [Another week], it was Squirrel's day."

Squirrel is David Brady, who has been one of Brown's friends since childhood.

Ison summarized the roles of the crew members.

"Neal's the secretary, he's the go-to guy. And Squirrel and I are the guys that back him up, you know, depending on the situation," Ison said. "If Ernie needs something built or needs a strong back, there I am. Sometimes, he just needs an extra set of hands, and Squirrel's there."

But Brown says their help goes beyond helping him catch critters. They also make sure the show maintains its sense of humor.

"If I failed to do the show, and make it not funny, I got one of these guys to back up the show," Brown said. "It might be Squirrel. It might be Jake. It might be Neal."

As far as the entertainment side, they've been doing all right. According to Animal Planet, "Call of the Wildman" is one of their five highest rated shows.

Their celebrity status has created some changes for the Turtleman and his team.

Anywhere he goes, Brown said someone wants to visit with him, take a picture or get an autograph. In fact, on the day Brown and his crew were interviewed for this story, a family from Louisville showed up at his house hoping to meet him and get a picture (which they did).

The rest of the Turtle Team said they've had similar experiences.

"You don't have no enemies anywhere," Ison said.

"That's the truth," Brady added. "I get swarmed all the time."

James said that the added attention has been positive.

"People love what we're doing. They're proud of us," James said. "They understand that we're not trying to put a black eye on Kentucky, that we're showing Kentucky in a bit of a different lifestyle in the backwoods. And we're backwoods by choice. We could do other things, but we're backwoods by choice. We feel it's a good thing."

James said he now gets about 1,500 calls each week from people who want the Turtleman to help, only a few of which are legitimate animal nuisance calls.

"Everybody's under the impression that they are going to invent a story to bring the Turtleman to their house," James said. "Don't try it cause it will not work."

Brown said Animal Planet has a crew of people who investigate the calls before deciding which ones will be considered for the show. For calls that are actual nuisances that don't make the show, James said they contact other animal nuisance professionals to help.

There are other drawbacks to celebrity, however. Every member of the Turtle Team said he's had to change his phone number at least once in the past year. On the same day he got a new cell phone, Brady said a few fans had already called him on his new number.

Nevertheless, Brown enjoys the attention.

"I get to see a lot of happy people in the whole wide world everywhere I go," Brown said. "Nothing like the fans backin' me up. Makin' people happy is what I do, and I hope to keep on doing it."

Inspiration

Before Brown got his own television show, the Turtleman said he admired "The Crocodile Hunter" Steve Irwin for his "warriorship" and his way with animals.

"He showed people how to handle an animal, and showed what they do. Me, I'm doing the same thing," Brown said.

Brown also said he had been in contact with Irwin's representatives weeks before Irwin died in a stingray accident. Brown would still like to meet Irwin's wife and daughter some day.

He insists he is not trying to take away from anybody's name.

"I just want people to respect me like they respected him," Brown said.

Fame for good

As the Turtleman has become more widely known, he's been invited to appear on The Tonight Show with Jay Leno (twice). James said it was only when they flew out to California the first time that Brown began to understand how far they could reach.

"He looked out and he saw all those houses, and I said, 'Each one of those lights, Ernie, represents not one person, but probably a family. And all those people are going to have a chance to see you,'" James said. "At that point, he got some idea of the conception of how big the world was."

Since then, he's made appearances on CNN and NBC. He and his Turtle Team have also attracted huge crowds at the Carl Casper Auto Show in Louisville and Van Lear Days in Floyd County.

At those events, they met fans who had traveled from as far away as China and Germany, and one fan stood in line for 11 hours just to get their autographs.

James said one man suffered a heat stroke while waiting in line to meet them.

"He wasn't worried about being disabled. He was worried about getting his autograph," James said. "Now that is insane."

But the Turtle Team has also used their newfound celebrity for good.

James and Brown both visited West Liberty in the aftermath of the storm in March of this year.

"It didn't leave a twig in that town," Brown said.

James visited the town first, and he helped raise $300,000 for tornado victims. Brown arrived as James was headed to Henryville, Ind., another area that had been ravaged by a tornado.

In spite of the destruction, Brown said the town went all out to greet him when he arrived. Military, police and emergency vehicles escorted him into town. He got a tour of where the survivors were staying.

Brown said he and his girlfriend had traveled down with books to pass out to the community.

"They was so glad to see me, they was giving me presents," Brown said.

On a more personal level, the Turtle Team spoke about meeting children who have experienced tragedies or illness. They've visited cancer victims and helped a young girl get an $18,000 breathing machine after hers was destroyed in a fire and her family's insurance company would not replace it.

They also spoke about visiting a little girl at Kosair Children's Hospital after they finished their appearance at the Carl Casper Auto Show. They had been told the girl wasn't likely to survive.

"They told us all, 'Y'all want masks?'," James said. "I said I ain't going in there and scaring that girl."

Brown had plans of his own. "I said, 'Get the banjo ready, Neal. We dancin' tonight here with Jesus,'" he said.

That girl was still alive the last they knew.

What's next?

On Labor Day, Animal Planet scheduled a "Call of the Wildman" marathon leading up to the season finale at 10 p.m., which will include two next episodes.

The Turtle Team wasn't about to give away anything about what might be in the finale, but James did offer one tease.

"It's a combination of funny and terror," he said. "Absolute terror."

As the current season is drawing to a close, many fans are asking if there will be another season.

When they were interviewed, Brown and his team were all optimistic that something could be worked out. Animal Planet officials also spoke favorably about renewing the show for another season.

Sinsel said they would like to send the Turtle Team on the road in addition to their adventures in Kentucky.

As of press time, Animal Planet officials indicated that they hoped to make an announcement about another season soon.

In the meantime, Brown hasn't given up on his childhood dream.

"I want to meet that Rolling Stone magazine guy," the Turtleman said. "That's my target."

Senior Daniel Klapheke punts the ball last Friday as the Breds hosted Bourbon County at the Harrison County Athletic Complex.

Breds take a step back, lose to Bourbon Co. 51-8

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

"While there were some things we improved on, we took a step back overall tonight," said Coach Jim Carr after the Bourbon County loss. "We were not as aggressive as we needed to be and Bourbon County took advantage of that fact."

Friday's football game started out on a strange note with the Colonels seemingly kicking an onside kick to send a message that this was going to be a hard hitting, tough game.

The Breds recovered the loose ball on the Colonels 35-five yard line but the officials ruled that the ball was down on the ThoroBreds 47 saying that the ball was possessed with a knee on the ground.

The Breds marched to the Bourbon County 37 on the second play from scrimmage on a Bourbon County personal foul.

Harrison County could only advance to the 33 in the next three downs and senior Daniel Klapheke's 50-yard field goal try was wide to the left though he had plenty of distance on the kick.

The missed field goal try brought the ball to the Bourbon County 20 where, on the first play transfer, quarterback Dalton Pope hit Charles Johnson on an 80-yard pass and run for a touchdown.

Houston Cox ran in the extra point for the two-point conversion with only two-plus minutes gone in the game for the 8-0 lead.

The Breds fumbled on their next possession on their own 11 that the Colonels recovered and two plays later Kentayvous Hopkins carried the ball in for a 4-yard touchdown.

Tyler Ishmael's pass to Michael Yazell made the score 16-0 with seven minutes left in the opening quarter.

A miscue on the next kick off found Harrison County on their own 1-yard line where the Breds went three-and-out with Klapheke's punt traveling only to the Harrison County 22-yard line.

A penalty moved the Colonels to the 27, but on the next play, Hopkins carried the ball in for a 27-yard touchdown.

The extra point was kicked this time by Josue Soriano making the score 23-0 with more than four minutes remaining in the first quarter. The teams battled fairly evenly the remainder of the period as the score remained 23-0 at the end of the quarter.

The first play after Bourbon County took over in the second quarter was a low point of the game as Johnson, while running the ball in for an apparent score from the Bourbon County 21-yard line, taunted the Harrison County defenders erasing the score and bringing the ball back to the Harrison County 32-yard line.

Three plays later, the Colonels continued the total dominance with a 23-yard touchdown pass from Pope to Hayden Cox which, with the extra point, made the

Soccer Breds split big rivalry matches with Scott Co. and GRC

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

Thursday night the ThoroBreds traveled to Georgetown to face Scott County in a big match against the 9-2 Cardinals.

The seniors on the Harrison County team had not beaten Scott County while they were in high school so a win was a high priority.

The game started poorly as, although the Breds were playing well, the ball fell right at a Scott County player's feet after a mis-directed clearance and the Cardinals were on the board 1-nil early.

Cody Marshall alertly scored when the keeper for the Cardinals lost control of the ball and the senior midfielder put it into the back of the net for a tie score.

Then with about eight minutes still to play in the first half Kyle Foster served up a perfect ball off a corner kick and junior Taylor Bolin sent a header into the net for a 2-1 half time lead.

The ThoroBreds settled in and possessed the ball in the second half while

Scott County became more defensive oriented in the final period concentrating on keeping Harrison County from scoring again.

"We played very well and the boys are starting to see how important it is to be focused well before the game," remarked Coach Nick Hill. "If we keep improving we could be a handful come tournament time."

Fillies soccer wins, loses, draws, record now 5-3-4

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

The Harrison County Fillies soccer team traveled to Winchester and won a big region game last Wednesday as they edged the Lady Cards of George Rogers Clark 3-2.

Juniors Haley Carr and Taylor Fry each scored a goal and freshman Amber Smith also added one as the Fillies played what Coach Kim Jenkins thought may have been the best effort of the season.

"It is a big win for us to come over here and beat a good Lady Cards team," said Jenkins. "We are passing the ball well right now and are beginning to find the right combinations to play well."

The loss dropped George Rogers Clark to a season record of 3-7 playing an extremely tough schedule.

The following night tired legs were an issue as Bishop Brossart came to the Athletic Complex and took away a 2-nil win over the Fillies.

"Four games in five days played a role in this loss," noted Jenkins. "Brossart has a good team, but we played them tough showing that we are capable of beating anyone."

Brossart has a 9-4 record for the season following Monday night's action.

Monday the Fillies traveled to Paris to take on rival Bourbon County (5-7-1).

The rainy conditions were in favor of the underdog Lady Colonels and they were able to battle to a 0-0 tie with the Fillies.

The Fillies dominated play from start to finish, but could not get a shot to go into the net as they fought hard to bring home the victory.

"We are passing the ball really well right now and are following the game plans that the coaches lay out," observed Coach Jenkins. "I believe we are close to putting it all together as the season draws to the end."

The Fillies will next travel to Maysville on Wednesday to battle St. Patrick (3-7) and then to Frankfort (5-5) on Monday before returning to LeBus Field on Wednesday the 26th to face Madison Central (11-2-1).

Golf team has three dual meets, loses all three

The Harrison County ThoroBreds golf team traveled to the Pendleton County Country Club last Wednesday to do battle with the Wildcats of Pendleton County. Eighth grader Jake Jones' 45 led the ThoroBreds as they went down to defeat by a wide 158 to 244 for the nine-hole contest.

Accuracy was at a premium on this day for Harrison County as the boys couldn't seem to make the easy putts or straight, long drives to challenge the good Pendleton County team.

Junior Richard Davis and sophomore Zach Hernandez followed Jones score each shooting a 12-over-48. Juniors Sam Levi and Stephen Lemons finished the Harrison County scoring as they shot 51 and 52 for the contest.

The next evening, the Bourbon County Colonels visited the Cynthiana Country Club for a nine-hole match with the ThoroBreds. Bourbon County has one of the better teams in the area, but the Breds improved their scores by 61 strokes over the Pendleton County outing and made a match of it for a while.

In the end, the Colonels won by a 155 to 173 score with the Breds greatly improved over the previous day. This time Jones, Levi and freshman William Hicks led the way each scoring a 43 total. Davis shot a 44 and Lemons a 48 to round out the Harrison County scoring.

Tuesday evening the boys traveled to Lake Carnico and lost a close match to Nicholas County 174 to 185. Jones again was the leading scorer along with Lemons as they shot 44s. Levi scored a 48 with Hicks shooting 49 and Davis a 52 for the nine holes.

The next scheduled outing is Wednesday when the boys travel to Paris to face the Greyhounds. The CKC tournament for the girls' teams is scheduled for this Saturday, which will be the next planned action for the Fillies.

MIKE'S MINUTE

When we were kids we called this a Pig Pile

After Saturday's football game with Western Kentucky we will begin to see what we called as kids
a pig pile.

A pig pile for those of you who were either never a kid or just haven't heard the term is when one person gets down and the rest pile on top of him.

The person on the bottom is the pig and the rest of the ones who pile on.

After the Western Kentucky loss, University of Kentucky coach Joker Phillips will play the pig and the media will be the people who pile on him.

Already in Sunday's paper one of the Herald Leader cheerleader/critics/football experts wrote that there are dark days ahead for the program.

Paraphrasing the article it would be that the University of Kentucky is the third best team in the state and if they cannot beat Western Kentucky can there be any hope of winning a game in the powerful SEC?

Instead of playing in the pig pile, I am going to look at what can be done
now and in the future for the next coach.

I will say that I have said on the air and probably in print that I didn't

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

think Coach Phillips was the right man for the job,
but having already said
that, I see no need in endlessly repeating it.

Let's look at the fact of being the "third best team in the state" and where that puts the Wildcats, if it is true.

Think of the schools in other states that would fall into that category.

My Hoosiers, after losing to Ball State Saturday night can't even say they are third since they would be behind the Cardinals as well as Notre Dame and the dreaded Boilermakers.

The University of California, who gave
Ohio State a real battle
Saturday would be behind
USC, Stanford, and UCLA
in California.

Texas A&M, the proud
new addition to the SEC,
would be third in Texas
behind the University of Texas and TCU and where does that put Texas Tech.

Troy would be third in Alabama and they are always a tough team.

Miami of Florida or the University of Florida would be third in their state depending on who is actually better between the two of them.

Wake Forest or Duke
would fall into third in North Carolina if they can beat Appalachian State.

The point being, while no one wants to be third in the state, it isn't a program killer if other parts of the job are handled correctly.

Here are two things of several that are not in Coach Phillips' favor or in the favor of anyone who takes the job if he, in fact,
loses it.

One is the scholarship limits and the parity that brings.

Recruiters can no longer make the Morgan Newton-like mistakes
while ignoring Antonio
Andrews.

In the old days, major schools could load up the roster and hope someone turned out good while stockpiling talent, but that is no longer the case.

That is no longer the case in the powerhouse schools and if it was ever
the case at Kentucky or

Indiana, it sure isn't now.

Only the Alabamas and LSUs and schools like this can make a mistake now and then because they basically pick who they want from the nation.

The other factor that is unique to Kentucky is the attention basketball draws and the negative aspect that has to football recruiting.

Granted, a mega successful basketball program can attract a player
now and then you can bet
that other football coaches have the Lexington newspaper from Sunday
in their briefcase to show blue chippers they are recruiting where they will stand in priority if they choose to go to UK.

Where else are there
two articles about Saturday's game, one of them highly negative, on the third week of football and a front page full of basketball about a charity game with basketball old timers?

I'm sure no one told Coach Phillips that his job would be easy and since he is coaching at his alma mater, he probably knew what he was up against, but it can't be any fun being the pig.

Volleyball plays six matches in busy week

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

The Harrison County
Fillies volleyball team played six road games
since last Thursday as the schedule is really busy heading toward district tournament time.

The Fillies began on Thursday at Pendleton County where they dropped three straight sets to the district rival Lady Cats.

The matches were closely contested with the final scores of 25-17, 25-13 and 25-17. Pendleton County improved to 11-5 with the win.

Saturday the Fillies traveled to Bath County for the Citizens Bank Volleyball Throwdown where they faced some outstanding teams from two other regions.

They began with Rowan County of the 16th region,
a team that they were successful against in an early season scrimmage.

This time, however, the Lady Vikings were up to the task derailing the Fillies 25-14, 12-25 and 15-6 to improve to 19-3 on the season.

Raceland was the next opponent and the Fillies lost two straight 25-14 and 27-25.

After a few minutes of rest the Fillies then faced the Lady Comets of West Carter defeating them
by a 25-18, 19-25 and 15-10
score.

Perry County Central
was the final opponent for the day for the Fillies. The 14th region squad handled the Fillies 25-20 and 15-13
to take the win. Perry County Central improved to 12-10 with the verdict
while Harrison County fell to 7-14 in this rebuilding year.

"We were competitive
in each of the matches," said Coach Bill Faulkner.
"In many instances we were just a step away or a person was just out of position enough to not get a big point. We are getting better though and I believe there are still teams that we should beat on the schedule before we get to the district."

The Fillies ventured
over to Nicholas County
on Tuesday and improved their record to 8-14 with a three-set win over the Lady Bluejackets.

Coach Faulkner substituted liberally while rolling up the 25-10, 25-13 and 25-16 set victories.

The Fillies next travel to
Mt. Olivet to face Deming (9-7) on Thursday and then play host to Bracken County (9-10) next Tuesday on the Hilltop as they work toward the Fillies
Fall Fling which is Sept.
29 on the Hilltop.

Coach Faulkner assures
all that there will be some really good teams here this year for the Fall Fling.

play the Thorobreds at the Athletic Complex.

The Cardinals play
a very tough schedule
and arrived on the hill with a 3-6-1 record. The game started with the Thorobreds playing well sticking to the game plan
and possessing the ball.

The entire first half saw a dominance of play by Harrison County, but the Thorobreds were unable to score. The first half ended scoreless.

"I believe that we out shot GRC by a 10-2 margin in the first half, but had nothing to show for it," added Coach Hill.

The second half was much like the first early on as the Thorobreds again were dominating in the field.

However, fatigue began to creep in as the half way point of the second period neared and the score remained knotted at nil.

The Cardinals stuck one into the back of the net
with about five minutes left but it was waved off
due to an offside call.

Still, the Breds let George Rogers Clark hang around and with 2:45 left in the contest a ball that car-omed off of the crossbar after Christian Carey had made a valiant attempt to deflect it, was kicked in for a 1-nil Cardinal lead.

That was the only
score of the game as the Thorobreds fell to the Cardinals by the 1-nil
score sliding to 6-5-1 for the season.

The Thorobreds next game is Thursday night at the Athletic Complex when St. Patrick's team visits.

The Saints are 3-7-1 on the season having lost
five straight before playing Grant County to a tie on Tuesday. This will be a varsity only match beginning at 6 p.m.

score 30-0.

Bourbon County scored two more times in the second quarter making the half time
score 44-0.

Harrison County continued to battle in the second half outscoreing the Colonels 8 to 7
in the last two periods.

After Bourbon County made the score 51-0 on a 92-yard pass from Pope to Hopkins, the Thorobreds took over on their own 20-yard line.

The Breds, with the clock operating in the continuous running mode, marched on a 13-play, 80-yard scoring drive to score on a 12-yard pass to Elijah Gross from Robbie Stroub for the Breds first
score.

Stroub ran the ball into the end zone for a two-point conversion making the final score 51-8.

The continuous clock allowed only 13 plays in the fourth quarter and there was not another play following the Harrison County score
though the score happened with two minutes and 15 seconds to go in the game.

The win improved the Bourbon County record to 4-0 for the year while the Breds fell to 0-5.

Harrison County will have a week off before the Highlands Bluebirds roll into the Athletic Complex on Sept.
28 for a battle with the Breds.

The Bluebirds are undefeated on the year and are widely considered to be the top team in the state not in Louisville.

Harrison County Hunter Education Safety course to be offered

A safe hunter education class will be held Sept. 24-26 at the Harrison County Extension Office. The course is sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife and taught by state certified Harrison County volunteer instructors. The 10-hour class is free of charge and open to the public. All course materials are furnished for the student.

Many states now require completion of a hunter education class before being permitted to hunt. Many Wildlife Management areas now also require proof of completion of a hunter education safety class.

Effective March 1, 1991, all hunters born on or after Jan. 1, 1975, shall while hunting, carry a valid hunter education course completion card in addition to the appropriate Kentucky hunting licenses..

The classes are from 6-9 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday night. Wednesdays' class location will be announced on Monday night during class.

For more information on the class, and to pre-register a student for the class, contact Master Instructor Judy K. Morris at 859-234-9928 or the Harrison County Extension Office at 859-234-5510.

Cross Country Breds third in Mason County Meet, Fillies 18th on Saturday

The Harrison County Thorobreds cross country team finished a close third narrowly missing their first win of the season in the Mason County Invitational Saturday.

The race was the largest that the Harrison County harriers had competed in this season and the boys turned in the best performance in years.

The 19-team field featured much of the regional competition for the Harrison County team and Coach Danny Simpson knows that his squad can compete with the best of them.

"This was an impressive showing in a field this large," remarked the veteran coach. "Four of our five point scorers medaled and the fifth (Austin Short) was close. I like the improvement I see, but there is still a lot of hard work ahead for us to get where we need to be for both squads."

Grant Carr, in his third varsity race ever, was the leader for the Thorobreds with an 11th place finish in 17:55. Joe Thomas, in his second race ever, was next in 14th place followed by Joey Faulconer in 16th and Ross Smith who was 26th. Short came in at 31st, which rounded out the scoring for the Breds.

Caldwell of Bishop Brossart won the race with a time of 16:50. Brossart won the meet with 85 points edging the host Royals with 87 and the Thorobreds with 98.

The Fillies while establishing some good times were far from the competition in this meet.

Brossart and Mason County were also one, two in the girls' division with identical scores that their counterparts in the boys' race posted.

Sizemore of Mason County won the race in 19:53. Erin Bradford led the Fillies with her best race ever. She finished 50th in the event with a time of 23:27, which is a course record for a Harrison County girl and the seventh fastest time ever for a Fillies runner. Bailey Caudill was next for the Fillies in 27:48 followed by Caylin Mattox, Tabitha Iles and Kayla Joy.

Samantha Woods, Jesse Petty and Abby Cooper competed for the Harrison County Middle School girls while Ben Bradford, Jacob Brueggen, Isaiah Brueggen and Luke Bradford ran for the middle school boys.

The K-6th grade contest had Robin Roberts leading the Harrison County girls followed by Evelyn Barker, Starr Hindbaugh and Mackenzie Mosig. The elementary boys were led by Thomas Morris followed by Zach Getting, Christopher O'Neal and Eli Marsh.

The cross country squad is next scheduled to compete in the Franklin County Invitational this Saturday.

Freshman win first game 28-0 over Mason County, 8th grade undefeated

The Harrison County football freshmen won their first game Monday night as they defeated Mason County in the rain at Ingles Stadium.

Jovon Williams scored two times for the home team, once on a run around end and one time on a bubble screen pass from Brock Jenkins. Tyler White also scored for the freshman squad on a running play and defensive back Justice Moore picked off a Royal's pass and took it to the end zone for the other Harrison County score.

The win gives the freshmen a 1-3 record with the next game at Lewis County on Sept. 24.

Thursday evening the Harrison County Middle School faced McNabb Middle of Montgomery County and split the two games. Coaches Eric Reed and Randolph Thomas' 7th grade team did not give up a point to the McNabb squad on defense but two intercepted passes and a fumble recovery gave the visitors an 18-0 win. The seventh grade record now stands at 1-3.

The 8th grade Colts used a stout defense and touchdowns by Dalton Moore and Donnie Herrington to beat the McNabb eighth grade team 16-6 to remain undefeated at 4-0.

Malcolm Walker and Herrington scored the two-point conversions for the final 16-point total.

The Harrison County Middle School teams will next face Bourbon County Middle School this Thursday on Lawson Field at Ingles Stadium. Game time is 6 p.m. for the 7th grade with the 8th grade game following immediately at the conclusion of the first game.

ADAM H. EDELEN
AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable Alex Barnett, Harrison County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Linda B. Furnish, Harrison County Clerk
Members of the Harrison County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Clerk of Harrison County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2011. This financial statement is the responsibility of the County Clerk. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the County Clerk's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 2011, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated July 5, 2012 on our consideration of the Harrison County Clerk's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the County Clerk and Fiscal Court of Harrison County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Respectfully submitted,

Adam H. Edelen
Auditor of Public Accounts
